

3 B'S: A PROACTIVE EMPLOYEE

We have surveyed and interviewed employers and found that being a proactive employee is one of the most desirable traits they look for in fresh graduates. Here are three ways to become a more proactive employee.

Be willing to learn

- Take initiative and actively request feedback
- Act upon the feedback
- Try to problem solve and find the answer

Be communicative

- Express your thoughts and propose new ideas
- Ask questions and speak up if you face difficulties
- Regularly report your progress to colleagues and supervisors

Be participating

- Engage in activities
- Strike up a conversation with your colleagues and supervisors
- Collaborate with others
